LACK OF SUPPORT BRINGS END TO GREEN LINE BUSES SUNDAY

All of the Green Line buses will be taken off the roads next Sunday night, according to the announcement of Harry Ambus, secretary of the Green Line Transportation Co. Lack of support is given as the reason for the discontinuance of bus service.

"We told the people last fall that if they didn't support the buses, we would take them off," said Ambus. "We told them that rather than raise the fare we would go out of business, and we are keeping our promise."

Mr. Ambus said the act of automobile drivers picking up passengers along the roads was responsible for taking them off the buses the revenue which they needed to be able to operate with reasonable profit.

Mr. Ambus said that the Green Line Transportation Co. was given the drivers first opportunity to buy the buses if they wished to continue running them.

The Green Line operated nearly a score of buses and carried hundreds of people to Cleveland every month.

MARSH MOTOR CAR CO. TO HAVE FIRST CAR AT AUTOMOBILE SHOW

In accordance with their prediction, the new Marsh Motor Car company, at Ridge road and the Cleveland Belt Line railway, will have their first car ready for the exhibition in the Cleveland automobile show this month, it was announced at the Marsh factory this week.

Before work was started on the foundation of the factory last fall, Marsh officials said they would be ready to show their first auto in January.

Much of the machinery has already been set up in the first factory unit and work of manufacturing begun. Sixty carloads of machinery has already been received from the Marsh munition factory which has been dismantled at Brockton, Mass., and there are 15 more carloads still enroute.

Many men from the eastern factory are arriving in Cleveland every week and many of them are locating at the Johnson house, Pearl and Broadway roads, until they can find permanent homes.

MARSH OFFICIALS AND EMPLOYEES HAVE GOOD TIME

A happy Christmas was arranged by the Marsh Company for its employees. A dancing party was held Christmas afternoon at Glenn Hall. The dance was arranged to give the employees of the company an opportunity of meeting the young people of Brooklyn.

Music was furnished by a six-piece jazz band.

As most of the employees of this company are strangers here the party was particularly enjoyable.

Previous to the dance a dinner was held in the Johnson house and about the table were gathered a hundred of Marsh Co. employees and W. T. Marsh, L. B. Marsh and A. R. Marsh and their families.

MAKE MAPS FROM AIR

Paris, Brazil.—Airplanes may be employed to map the valley of the great Amazon river. If the French are successful in their effort to use aircraft for surveying the routes of the rivers of French Guiana. It is understood the Brazilian government will apply the same method to the survey of the Amazon and its affluents.

A French company is said to have been formed in Cayenne, with hangars on the Maroni river, and French aviators with flying experience gained in the war are being employed to run the 25 hydro-airplanes said to have been furnished by the government.

In addition to making maps, the machines will be employed for carrying valuable freight, mails and passengers. There are immense rivers in French Guiana, which, because of the presence of many rapids, are now only navigable in canoes, which take weeks to transport freight over distances which the hydro-airplanes can cover in as many hours, with always large stretches of smooth water offering a suitable surface for landing and "take-offs."

The freight charges are said to be high, and the traffic is expected to consist mainly of gold, balata and essence of rosewood, which are the principal exports of the colony. The passenger business is not expected to be heavy.

These hydro-airplanes will also be used for prospecting the forests for balata trees, which grow in groups, so that the foliage can, it is said, be readily distinguished by aviators flying low over the tops of the forest trees.

In the past the securing of fresh sources of balata has been a work of much danger and difficulty. Specially trained balata workers, well armed, traveling in bands of 15 or 20, have been employed to explore the forests, and they had to carry with them supplies to cover many months.

GERMANS WANT WHITE HOUSE

Berlin, Germany.—Plans are under way to spend 22,000,000 marks for the purchase and equipment of a residence for future German presidents, something on the line of the White House in Washington or the Elysee in Paris, but necessarily less pretentious. The plan-german papers are opposing the idea and one of them remarks sarcastically that the plan does not entirely fit in with Erzberger's talk about "utmost economy."

STUDENT COSTS $641.60 YEAR

Tuition Expense to Princeton University, for Which He Pays But $174.

Princeton, N. J.—President John Greer Hibben of Princeton university authorized the following statement: At the request of the university authorities, Treasurer H. G. Duffield of Princeton has just completed a study of the actual cost to the university of educating a student.

The figures show that for the years 1912 to 1917 it cost an average of $641.60 annually to educate an undergraduate. Toward this the student paid an average of $174 in tuition fees. Thus, a student who attended Princeton received, in effect, an actual gift from the university each year of services and work involving an outlay on the part of the university over and above the amount the student paid of $467.60.

The statement asserts no increase in tuition fees is contemplated.

FRENCH HELD IN PRISONS

Dijon, France.—Germany still retains French prisoners of war in close confinement. It is claimed by Louis Pouchet, a French volunteer, who was taken prisoner in 1918, and returned to his home here recently.

He declared that he, with two comrades, was tried before a court-martial for attempting to escape, and was sentenced to ten years imprisonment in a fortress. He was taken to Danzig and the others were sent to Koeneberg. The French mission from the city which visited the Danzig fortress discovered, according to Pouchet, several prisoners in solitary confinement and had them released. Pouchet was among them. French war office records had carried the word "disappeared" against his name.

GAVE A BOOK; GOT A HUSBAND

New York Girl Evidently Was As Sweet As Poetry Volume She Donated.

New York.—When the "Books for Soldiers" campaign was at its height early last year, Miss Hazel Doll Gilbert of Sheepshead Bay, a daughter of Detective Sergeant George P. Gilbert of the bomb squad, turned in a volume of poems.

The book, with her name on the fly-leaf, found its way to a rest station behind the firing lines, and there fell into the hands of Lieut. William J. Edwards of the marine corps, who wrote her a letter asking her if she were as sweet as the verses.

When he came home he called, and apparently found her so, for they were married the other day at the Gravesend Reformed church. After a honeymoon in Bermuda, Lieutenant Edwards and his bride will live in Washington.

Decorated in Overalls.

Ahliene, Kan.—Because he refused to leave his work in the Riverside power plant to go to a celebration at Adair last night and receive a citation and Distinguished Service Cross, William H. Fuller was decorated in overalls the next day by Col. J. E. Patrese of Wichita, who brought the medal to him. Fuller rescued a comrade under fire in the Argentine while serving in Company M, One Hundred and Thirtieth Infantry. He insisted that he was not specially deserving of honor and would not appear in public to receive it.

Artist Discovers Painting at Art Dealer's Taken From His Studio 16 Years Ago.

New York.—Among the products of his own brush prized most highly by Childe Hassam was a picture which he painted when beginning his career in the Latin quarter of Paris three decades ago, and although it disappeared 16 years ago, when he was moving from one apartment to another in this city, his recollection of it never faded entirely.

Recently Frank K. M. Rehn, son of an artist and himself a dealer in art at 6 West Fifth street, called on Mr. Hassam to inquire as to the authenticity of a picture attributed to him and previously acquired by the dealer. When Mr. Hassam entered the dealer's gallery and viewed "Flower Girl Selling Peonies," he at once recognized his long-missing painting. As Mr. Rehn had bought the painting he demurred against giving it back without being reimbursed.

Mr. Hassam began an action in the supreme court for the recovery of the picture or $1,000.

Numbers for Fong Sing's. San Francisco, Cal.—So many Fong Sing's appeared to charges of violation of the federal narcotic laws that Federal Judge William Van Fleet of the federal court here was forced to place them in numbered chairs, such as "Fong Sing No. 1, Fong Sing No. 2," etc., down the line. Each was treating on the other's toes, so to speak, and all the attorneys and all the king's men had a terrible time parting them again. Forty-two Chinese faced the charge of selling narcotics without a license.

AH! BOLSHEVİK PLOT IN JAVA

Chinese Are Accused of Using Trade Boycott to Advance Radicalism.

The Hague.—The Dutch East Indian government has revealed what is alleged to have been an extraordinary bolshevik plot in Java and other Dutch East Indian colonies under the guise of an anti-Japanese boycott.

Agitation was conducted advocating the patronizing of certain financial institutions conducted by Chinese. These latter, according to The Netherlands government agents, were found to be bolshevik sympathizers who had planned to use the funds thus secured to carry on bolshevik propaganda in the far East.

A press telegram from Makassar, Java, announced that the boycott had been ended.

OUR GIRL REALIZES RESPONSIBILITY TO HER SCHOOL

Edith Sheely, 13-year-old pupil in District No. 9, Parma Township, has a well defined idea of her responsibility in keeping up the standard of her school. When her teacher, Miss Winifred Stroud, told her to give her ideas, Edith wrote the following:

My responsibility in keeping up the standard of our school: I do my lessons because they will help me in later years and not because I think I will be punished if I don't.

I believe in taking care of our school property; so it will not be a school to be ashamed of, but a school to be proud of.

I don't believe in damaging other school pupils' property, in any way. So when I grow up I will know what is right.

I believe in being kind to my playmates and not quarreling with them. So when my time comes to help I will not be hard to get along with, as some people are.

I believe in being happy and content so that I will not be spoiling the rest of the children's play and fun. I believe in being kind to my teacher and helping her to do her part. In all I do, and not making it unpleasant for her.

Co-operation or working together with our school-mates and teacher is the only way to get the most good out of our school life. And that is what we are trying to do at Woning school.

ROYLTON CENTER

The Royalton Center schools closed Friday, Dec. 19th for the holidays. The day was given over to Christmas exercises. In the forenoon the high school literary society gave their regular monthly program. All the other rooms of the building attended the session. The program closed with a beautiful play entitled "Christmas." In the afternoon, five programs were rendered by the other rooms. The primary room gave a very nice Christmas cantata, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Laura Evans. After this, the intermediate room under the direction of Miss Rubenstein gave their regular program, consisting of dialog, readings and music.

A very pleasing thing about the afternoon program was the interest shown by the school patrons. Nearly forty attended and were well pleased with the programs.

The teachers and principal are all ways glad to welcome visitors at the school. They wish the patrons and friends would come often to their special programs and also to visit during the regular school sessions.

During the second semester they are planning work in domestic science and manual training which will be very helpful.

THE BROOKLYN NEWS

Published weekly by The Brooklyn Publishing Company for The Brooklyn Business Men's Chamber of Industry and The Brooklyn, Parma and Royalton Civic Association.

Officers of The Brooklyn Publishing Company: President George Meyers, Vice President J. Elsoffer, Sec. and Treas. William B. McDiarmid, Directors J. H. Rosenberg, Ed. Edelman, A. W. Howe, J. P. Smith, George Meyers, J. Elsoffer and William B. McDiarmid, Manager and Editor L. E. Fruch, 4107 Pearl Road, Phone: Harvard 958-Riverside 151, FRIDAY, JANUARY 2, 1919

We are launched on the sea of 1920. From every indication the present year is to be filled with successes for Brooklyn. The year 1919 has bespoken an eventful career for Brooklyn in 1920.

The year just closed has been good to Brooklyn. It has obtained for it a $3,000,000 automobile plant—the station car Company—which is sure to be followed by a big home-building boom. It has obtained other manufacturing projects for Brooklyn, including the Perfection Rubber Company, which expects to be occupying a new home on Brook Park Road, between Pearl and State Road, before next July.

The sanitary sewer district established south of Brooklyn is another child of 1919. This improvement project will mean an immense stimulant to home building in the territory out Pearl and State road way. The sanitary district was created last October, but the working out of details has been retarded by petty squabbles between factions on the board of county commissioners. Likely the commissioners will turn over a new leaf this new year and scissor out their wrangling.

Right in Brooklyn itself, steps will be taken in 1920 to bring about the improvement of several dozen streets, according to the promise of Councilman Townes. Mr. Townes has asserted that he would see to it that legislation is started for every improvement Brooklyn should have.

Various Brooklyn organizations will find themselves busy during the year in keeping pace with the 1920 prosperity. A booming territory requires careful watching that its growth be in the proper direction; this every progressive Brooklyn organization well recognizes.

The Brooklyn Parma Royalton Civic Association, which is responsible for dozens of improvements both completed and contemplated is straining every energy to Make 1920 a Banner Year for Brooklyn.

The Brooklyn Business Chamber is alert and is doing the same.

The Brooklyn Women's Civic League has an extensive program mapped out for bettering the community during the coming year and the branches of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. will see to it that Brooklyn is enriched from a social standpoint.

With every force working in the right direction there is no reason on earth why 1920 cannot be made a banner year? It will take a little work to do it, even though all the elements right now seem to forecast big things for Brooklyn during the new year.

We can all do our part individually to aid in 1920. Let's do it.

THE USEFUL TAILORED FROCK

Milady Considers Her Wardrobe Incomplete Without at Least One Such Outfit.

The tailored frock for street wear is the most important garment to be chosen during either spring or fall. For several seasons the two-piece suit has enjoyed a rather doubtful vogue, while the one-piece frock has gained in favor each succeeding season since it made its initial appearance. The two-piece suit is really an expensive garment, no matter what it costs when purchased, for the reason that innumerable blouses must be purchased also, and during the past two seasons the possession of a two-piece suit has meant the purchase of several separate vests as well. The one-piece frock only requires at the most fresh collar and cuffs to complete it, and very often not even these. In addition to these recommendations, the one-piece frock is so easy to slip into and so generally becoming that no woman considers her wardrobe complete without at least one tailored street frock for every season.

Pearls in Oysters.

Beloit, Wis.—Forrest Wilson bought a quart of oysters for 50 cents. When eating them he bit on something hard and found it to be a pearl. A few seconds later his son had a similar experience. The stones had not been cooked enough to harm them. The largest one is worth $50 and the smaller $10, making $60 in two bites.

THE BEST FALL SOMETIMES

Karl Kist, Y. M. C. A. secretary, experienced this last Saturday when he took a group of boys out hiking and being the first to cross a creek that was too thinly coated with ice, fell in. A green wood fire was not sufficient to dry his wet clothes so they went back to his machine and found that "It never rains, but it pours", or in other words that they had one flat tire which had to be changed in spite of everything.

PAID FOR HIS FUN

Prank of Baby Elephant Brought Retribution.

Her Patience Exhausted, Mother Administered a Spanking That Brought Tears in Bucketfuls From Her Offspring.

In a recent exchange it is stated that elephants are amazingly like human beings in the way they discipline their young. The following amusing incident was seen by a traveler in an extensive lumber yard in Burma.

While the adult elephants were faithfully at work the youngsters played about the yard. The elephant that attracted the traveler's particular attention was hauling, in her chain harness, a huge tree trunk from the bank of the river.

She had a heavy load, a fact that her offspring did not realize. Bent on playing a prank, he wound his little trunk about one of the chain traces and pulled back with all his strength.

Conscious of the suddenly increased weight, the mother looked around. She saw the youngster and shook her head solemnly, but paying no further heed to his teasing, bent again to her work. Meanwhile the little rascal, with his mischievous trunk had loosened the ring that fastened the traces to the load.

While the mother was straining to get her burden in motion again, her rascally son pulled so stupidly that she was quite unaware that she had been disconnected from her load. Then suddenly the youngster let go. Naturally enough, the mother was thrown to her knees and her driver hurled in a wide circle from her back.

The culprit sought a huge woodpile that seemed to offer him at least a temporary protection. His mother, however, was soon in pursuit, and he had to flee. Round and round the woodpile he dodged, but his mother, with her iron harness clanking noisily behind her, kept close at his heels.

Although the little one's greater agility gained some space for him at the corners, his mother eventually overtook him. The first blow of her trunk drew from him a wail of pain. At the second he sank, quite humbled to his knees; and then he endured without a murmur, although with many tears, a sound thrashing. Finally the mother let him up. With tears still streaming and with drooping trunk he took his disconsolate way out of the yard.

THE BROOKLYN NEWS

It gained some space for him at the corners, his mother eventually overtook him. The first blow of her trunk drew from him a wail of pain. At the second he sank, quite humbled to his knees; and then he endured without a murmur, although with many tears, a sound thrashing. Finally the mother let him up. With tears still streaming and with drooping trunk he took his disconsolate way out of the yard.

The little fellow had won the complete sympathy of the observer. Consequently he was overjoyed to witness during the noon hour a touching reconciliation. The mother did all she could to comfort the penitent little sinner; she caressed him with her trunk, cuddled him up against her, and looked at him as if to say: "You still have a mother who loves you."

"Silk" From Pulp

Fifteen million pairs of "silk" stockings, the product of forests, were sent out of the United States last year to compete with the product of the oriental silkworm.

The process by which the forests are turned into silk stockings is a wood pulp process. Wood pulp is treated with caustic soda to form a sodium cellulose, and then dissolved in carbon disulphide. The artificial product has a greater brilliancy than natural silk, but is somewhat harsher to the touch.

It is now used, not only for hosiery, but for dress trimmings, upholstery and rugs, for insulating electric wire, and making durable mantles for incandescent lights. The artificial silks exported by the states go to all parts of the world, and actually invade the countries in which natural silk is produced, including China, Japan, and Italy, the chief silk-producing countries of the world.

SOME NEW PARIS IDEAS IN GOWNS

Premet Model Represents All That Is Original and Novel in World of Dress.

CANES AND GAUNTLET GLOVES

Added Features of Louis XV Outfit Are Said to Be Practical, Except for Formal Events or Evening Wear.

Here are two sketches of a costume which may truthfully be called "the newest of the new," writes a leading Paris fashion correspondent. It is a Premet model and it represents all that is original and novel in the Paris world of dress. Here you have the true Louis XV outline. A robe made of taffeta in two shades of peacock blue, mounted over a black lace underdress and finished with a plain, tight-fitting corsage.

This corsage fastens, almost inistibly, down the back and it is important to observe that the neck opening is round while at the back there is a peak, ending in a small bow. This is one of Premet's new ideas and this particular model has had a great success. It will be copied widely and in many different materials.

You will see that the skirt is made in two parts, one side in pale blue silk and the other in a darker shade. The corsage is in the light color, with cuffs of darker blue. Absolutely no trimming is introduced on the corsage. This is an idea which is generally followed by the leading dressmakers of the Rue de la Paix. Nowadays one rarely sees an elaborately trimmed bodice, and many of the more expensive models are plain, as indicated in the sketch.

It is very important to realize that these fitted corsages are worn over what may be called "a natural corset," that is to say, there is no indication of a small waist, the outline is intentionally boyish and for this reason it is youthful. If you have seen the jackets worn by French fencing masters you will realize at once the effect which our great dressmakers wish to obtain.

Stiffened at the Sides.

The Premet model was slightly stiffened at the sides, right on the hips, and the silken material was gathered at the waist. The corsage was separate, though it looked as though it were attached to the skirt.

These fitted bodices are going to be immensely fashionable. They need to be perfectly cut and fitted, otherwise they are far from becoming. I have seen them in silk jersey-cloth, worn over skirts of silk or fine serge and the combination was highly successful.

With the new Louis XV dresses long, very thin canes will be carried and gauntlet gloves worn. This is going to be a picturesque winter, but in reality the new styles are quite practical, except for evening gowns, and those of the more ceremonious order; we do not find many panner dresses shown in the Rue de la Paix; the Louis XIV and Louis XV outfits are much in evidence, but now that we have settled down a little the ultra-sensational models seem to have disappeared from view.

The new Louis XV bodices can be fastened at the back, at one side or directly in front. In each case the fastening is made as invisible as possible, unless a close row of small buttons be introduced. Premet is using a great deal of taffeta, plain and shot; but indeed the same thing may be said of all the other famous dressmakers of Paris. It is the year of taffetas.

With regard to the new fur wraps and coats, the chief item to note is the enormous collar which almost entirely covers the ears and hair. Collars are getting larger and larger, or, on the other hand, they are quite small. But the ultra-large models are the chief favorites.

Chez Redfern recently saw a wonderful wrap made of moleskin-picked skins—which was lined with rose Dubarry brocade and finished with an enormous collar of mink. The combination of fur was unexpected but very successful. Mink is to the fore for every possible purpose. It is indeed the fur of the year.

Mink barrel-wraps are in great demand, and the linings are always an important point. The loveliest brocades are used for this purpose, and also short taffetas with irregular designs worked in fine silks, or striped taffetas with hand-embroideries running down certain of the lines. Linings are once more of vital importance. It is now so much the fashion to wear handsome wraps at restaurant teas or afternoon dances, throwing them off carelessly over the back of a chair, that it is really necessary to give close consideration to the linings.

Musquash is more fashionable than ever and it is often combined with mink—in collar form—or with kolinsky. For young girls an entire wrap of musquash is considered more correct than one trimmed with another fur, and, as a matter of fact, a big, loose wrap or circular cape made entirely of musquash is a particularly youthful garment.

I have seen wonderful capes which were arranged entirely in graduated figures and made of astrakhan or moleskin. It is easy to understand that such mantles need to be most carefully cut and fitted; otherwise they would look very heavy. One model, created for the Paris stage, was made of broadtail with a narrow border of squirrel at the edge of each shaped flourish; the cape was circular and the lining was gray satin, finely hand-painted in Japanese style.

Short Barrel Wraps for Girls.

Our girls will wear short barrel wraps when going to dance teas or long cape wraps if a specially dainty frock is to be worn. Now that afternoon entertainments are so fashionable it is most convenient to have smart wraps which are so warm that they can be worn, comfortably, over crepe de chine or chiffon dresses.

Plechu-capes in fur are novel and practical. I have seen them in squirrel—one of the most fashionable short-haired furs of the year—and also in musquash and ermine. One model, worn by Robline at an afternoon concert, was made of the latter fur. There were no tails and the fichu ends were finished with broad black moire ribbons, tied in a big loose bow at the back.

The fichu was crossed in front and it boasted a high Medici collar, which made an ideal frame for Robline's lovely face. Short, straight ties—very wide and supple—are fastened in front with laced ribbons. Other models are fastened with big fur buttons and silken loops. Cecile Sorel has introduced a short shawl in ermine, which gave a curiously old world aspect to its wearer.

This shawl was only long enough to cover the hips, and it was worn quite carelessly, thrown open in front and gathered up over the arms, just as our great-grandmothers used to wear their cashmere shawls.

Hand-Painted Flowers on Mats.

I have seen a great many hand-painted flowers on the new millinery: there is a special preparation which makes them comparatively rainproof and the colors are very lovely. Kid is used for all sorts of unexpected purposes; for painted and embroidered handbags, for waistcoats, cuffs, hat crowns, collars on tailored suits and so on. Embroidered kid waistcoats are shown in some of the very best attelers. They are horribly expensive, but so beautiful that one feels tempted toward extravagance.

Waistcoats with elaborate buttons are demanding constant attention. It is the moment of waistcoats and never have I seen more lovely buttons than those shown at the present moment.

One of the successful novelties takes the form of triangular buttons made of ivory and inset with tiny steel facets, and flat ivory buttons rimmed in jet. A valuable set of six buttons is considered an ideal present for a bride or for a favorite niece on her birthday.

Timber Wolf Killed.

Madisonville, Ky.—After terrorizing the inhabitants of Marion county for many months, the timber wolf that has killed sheep, calves and dogs was killed by Isalah Burden one morning recently on "The Point," near Pink Nall's farm. The animal was brought here and exhibited at the Garrick theater. It weighed about 75 pounds.

Billy's Arithmetic.

Little Billy entered a confectioner's shop and said: "Please, mum, how much are them buns?"

"Well, my little man, I'll give you six for five pence."

"Six for five," said little Billy; "that's five for four, four for three, three for two, two for one, and one for nothing. Please, mum, one's all I want!"

Sturdy Old Italian Dame.
The women of the lower classes in Italy are indefatigable workers. They have to be, and do all sorts of laborious and ungrudging tasks, according to our American ideas. In fact, the traveler in Italy is almost convinced that the women do all the work, while the men do the talking. Age is no barrier to feminine activity, for one old crone at least eighty, to judge from her wrinkled face and tottering steps, was photographed carrying an immense basket of fagots, all alone, across one of the busiest streets in lovely Lugano in Italy.

BRITONS LACK CHORUS GIRLS

Slow to Turn to Stage After Long Period at Other Work During War.

London.—England is experiencing a shortage of chorus girls, according to some theatrical agents and stage managers.
Plenty of young women are still experienced girls are said to be far less plentiful than they were. One theatrical agent has explained the situation thus:
"During the war a large number of chorus girls, show girls and other 'small part ladies' left the stage for other work. Some are remaining in it permanently; others have not yet come back to the theater. Many girls, too, were married to officers during the war. Even salaries of four pounds ($19.40) are not tempting girls to go out of London."

Blew Out 90 Lights.
Rochester, Minn.—With 13 relatives and members of his family about him, C. C. Wilson, a Rochester attorney, celebrated his nineteenth birthday here. A cake sufficiently large to cover an ordinary table contained 90 candles. Wilson blew out the candles one at a time and when he got through he estimated that he would perform a more important feat ten years hence. Wilson is believed to be the oldest practicing attorney in the Northwest.

THE KNIGHT AND THE DRAGON

Long ago there lived in the great underworld a knight whose name was unknown to the world. He was brave and strong. Nobody could wrestle him and he could hurl the spear farther and straighter than anyone in the world. He was very young and skillful. Now there lived a monster, called a dragon. Everybody was in fear because he used to come to the edge of a large forest and kill the farmers cows, horses and sheep and eat them, and often would kill the owners. Every day the dragon was getting nearer to the city, and when he once got in, he would destroy it, he was so large and powerful. Many a brave knight had lost his life trying to kill this monster, but no one succeeded. One day this brave knight said that he was going to kill this monster. The people begged him not to go. They said that so many of them had been destroyed trying to destroy this monster that there were hardly any knights left. But that did not stop our hero.

The next day he started off. He took a very good horse, a lance and a sword. He rode all day and all night without stopping. On the second night he came to the forest. He dismounted, and drawing his sword went to the edge of the forest. It was strewn with bones of animals of all sorts. Right in the midst of them was a path that lead into the thickest part of the forest. He was just going to follow it when there was a movement to the right. He turned around and was almost petrified at what he saw.

There, coiled up, was the dragon, eating a dog. Two more dogs were running about. One of them came up to the knight and whined. The dragon looked that way. When he saw the knight he dropped his prey and glided toward him. The knight jumped on to his horse and rode as swiftly as he could toward the dragon. With his lance in hand he rushed up on the monster. The weapon struck the monster in the head but it glanced away as if it had been a rock. Again the knight charged, this time his lance was broken. He jumped from his horse and drew his sword. The dragon rushed at him with his mouth wide open, but the knight was too quick for him. With a thrust of his sword he drove it into the monster's mouth. The dragon sank back and with a quiver and a gasp it died. The victorious knight cut off its claws and put them into a sack.

He mounted his horse and without forgetting the two dogs he rode homeward. The people thinking him dead, almost went wild with joy when they saw him. They were still wilder with joy when they saw the ugly claws, almost three inches long. They cheered him with rousing cheers. One old man asked him where he had got those two fine dogs. He told them how he came to get them, and when he had finished, everyone wanted one of the dogs, but he kept them and told them they could come and see them any time they wished. So he saved his country from being destroyed by this monster, and for this he was given a gold medal and lived happily ever after.

THE END.

TAKING MEN'S JOBS

Finnish Women Take Up All Kinds of Employment.

Even Serve as Porters on Sleeping Cars—Do Office and Manual Work.

Helsingfors.—An astonishing sight for the stranger in Finland is the number of women engaged in almost every field of employment. In England during the war one became accustomed to the sight of women performing various kinds of work in which previously only men were engaged. But in Finland the visitor gets the impression that the women are doing everything.

Not only are they at heavy manual work in fields and factories but they have become skilled as mechanics and have invaded business offices to an extent that is probably undreamed of in any other country.

In banks the proportion of women employees to men appears to be about ten to one. In the biggest financial institutions in Helsingfors women hold positions involving great responsibility and calling for exceptional ability. At the Finnish foreign office the Associated Press correspondent noticed that women were holding offices that would be entirely beyond the aspirations of their sisters in the state department at Washington or the British foreign office.

This change has come about almost overnight. Finland's man power has been greatly depleted, and a large part of what is left is required for military service.

The Finnish business woman is remarkably keen and intelligent. She has a kind of masculine interest and absorption in her work that seems to admit of no margin for sentiment or frivolity. She dresses simply and smartly, as do the majority of the city-bred women of this country. An American walking through the principal streets of Helsingfors might well believe, judging from the costumes and brisk walk of the Finnish women, that he was in the heart of Chicago.

First Dolls.
The first dolls of which there is any knowledge were found among the treasures unearthed from the ruins of Babylon. They were small figures in terra cotta and ivory, beautifully carved and must have been fascinating playthings for little Assyrian children. The little girls of Syria had mechanical dolls. The dolls the classic children played with were made of wax and clay, decorated with bright colors. As these children married very young, they played with their dolls until just before their wedding day.
