The Brooklyn Day committee has chartered three doubleheader street cars to carry the Brooklyn Day outing crowd to and from the Pennsylvania stafion at Newburg. To provide for special transportation it was necessary for the committee to raise the price of tickets to $1.10 for adults and 85 cents for children. These tickets entitle the holder to transportation from Brooklyn to Brady Lake and return. The price formerly announced was $1 and 85 cents. It is suggested that merchants who have Brooklyn Day outing cards in their windows make the proper price change on the cards.

It's Up To You To Show Them

The county commissioners, apparently, are waiting for the property owners of this entire section of Cuyahoga county to demand action for the development of the Sanitary Sewer Districts. In this they are not to be censured for it is up to the people to insist on action.

So it is up to you, Mr. Property Owner, to show the county commissioners that you want water and sewer facilities developed in the community south of the city. Until such improvements are installed the progress of the entire section of Brooklyn, including the matter of providing Brooklyn with an adequate sewer system, will be held up.

The engineers who studied the districts advise that the county act now. A month of delay now will mean six months delay later.

You, Mr. Property Owner, should attend the meeting of the Southwestern Civic and Business Men's Association, tonight (Friday) in Odd Fellows' hall, Pearl and Broadview road, and show by your presence that you want action on the sewer districts. Engineering experts will be present.

Maybe They'll Tell Us

What is the matter with the Cleveland Real Estate Board which parades as the protector of the property buying and selling public and shouts from the housetops, "Do business with us if you want a square deal?"

As an organization the board assumes the "holier than thou" attitude but as individuals some of the members might win first prize as real estate pirates.

While we do not believe in condemning an organization for the misdeeds of a member or two, we do condemn any organization that will not eliminate from its personnel members who do not live up to the best ethics which the organization proposes to

In the hands of the county surveyor is a list of allotment operators who utterly disregard the rules of the county in laying out their allotments. On the list is the name of one of the prominent members of the Real Estate Board who is pointed out as one of the worst offenders as far as observance of the county's rules for alloting property is concerned.

Why is this allowed? We asked a member of the Real Estate Board and his pertinent reply was "The Real Estate Board lacks backbone."

The Real Estate Board can be made a power for the betterment of the real estate buying public, but apparently it would have to undergo a reformation or submit to a weeding of its membership.

We suggest that the board wake up to the situation, investigate the reason why the names of some of its members are on the county engineer's list, and come out and really protect the interests of the home and home site buyer so it will truly be an honor to be a "realtor."

HAY FEVER

The vagaries of hay fever would fill a book and it is annually a good subject for the country's jokesmiths. It changes the voice, it reddens the cyclids, it makes breathing difficult such words as must vibrate through the nose is impossible. Webster says: "Hay fever—a cabranes of the eye and respiratory tract." There is little to add to this definition except to say that the disease is marked by excessive heat in the mucous membranes, a thin, watery discharge from the nose, and sneez-

The flying pollen from flowers and plant life infects the sensitive membrane, and the generally accepted idea is that the disease must run its m course until frost brings relief. However, the fact has long been recognized that hay fever is unknown to those who are able to withstand the pollen infection. Only about one person in a hundred is affected, and if some way to restore the natural vigor of the mucous membranes were found, it has long been admitted, there would be no necessity for hay fever! suffering.

The success of chiropractors with m this disease has been such that it is no longer listed as among the incurable aiments. Adjusting of the fourth cervical joint of the backbone, the only place where pressure upon the spinal nerve running to the nose pass cervical joint of the backbone, the spinal nerve running to the nose passages could exist, is invariably followed by a reduction of the infiammation and a festoration of the normal health of the affected membranes and dair passages.

It is occasionally necessary to adjust differently for hay fever inflam-mation reaching down into the bronchial passages. Hay fever affecting ed hay asthma, or autoumnal asthma. Where the bronchial passages and the throat are affected, there is coughing and spitting and breathing is diffi-

The time required for relief under Reasons for Success 1 adjusting will differ in nearly every case. Patients under twenty years of age, usually respond in a few adjustments, or at most in a fortnight. Oldfer persons, with whom hay fever has and tell of obstacles overcome I been an annual visitor for many years, cannot expect such quick results. The happy prospect for those hay fever sufferers who turn to chiropractic, however, is that adjusting removes the cause. Many adjusted B for hay fever have never had a return
